Facilitators

Judy Henderson, MEd.

Education & Outreach Coordinator, NNADV

Ms. Henderson is the education & outreach coordinator for the Program Department for the NNADV. She is responsible for the supervision, implementation and evaluation of education and outreach strategies that support the mission of the Nevada Network Against Domestic Violence. This department provides support by sharing resources to enhance service delivery and increase awareness of domestic violence issues by working with direct service providers, allied professionals and the general public. Ms. Henderson holds a master's degree in Education Management from the University of LaVerne in California.

Cheryl L. Radeloff, Ph.D.

Disease Investigation & Intervention Specialist II (DIIS II),
Southern Nevada Health District

In addition to her full-time position with the Southern Nevada Health District, Ms. Radeloff currently serves as the public health co-chair for the Southern NV HIV/AIDS Community Planning Group and is an adjunct professor of Sociology and Women's Studies at the College of Southern Nevada. Cheryl is a seasoned author writing on topics such as safer sex, feminist pedagogy, and feminist methodology. She is also a well-know presenter on sexuality and HIV both locally and at national venues.
